LITTLE BIT
on most anything

Just suppose the new universal hero, Pollution Fighter, were to throw a hammerlock around your neck and press a revolver against your temple, and demand:

"Either you stop polluting Monterey Bay or I pull the trigger."

What would you do?

You'd probably stop polluting the bay, and cover up a gnawing hatred of the Pollution Fighter for using such violent tactics.

In calmer, more reflective moments, you'd probably admit that you really don't want to pollute the bay or destroy your own environment. But it would still bug you because you're not the only one who's doing it. You might mutter that it's really a problem for the state or the nation, and then admit that you're part of both.

And it might make you a little mad that some outsider has come in and forced you to make his particular polluter your number one priority when you really feel that there are some other polluters -- not only the normal kind that are associated with the "total environment" -- that need fighting first.

But in the end you'll overcome that sinking feeling that your property tax is going to bury you, and vote for the bonds to stop the pollution.

Then again you might just figure that Pollution Fighter is losing his battle anyway, and that you'll be dead of garbage or smog or whatever soon enough.

So why not vote No on the bonds and take those few extra bucks and live it up. Otherwise, how will you ever know if the Pollution Fighter's revolver is loaded?

$800,000 sewer bond issue on ballot Tuesday

Seaside voters will decide only one strictly local issue in the primary election next Tuesday, June 2 -- whether to approve some $800,000 in bonds to expand the local sewer treatment plant.

Such expansion had been under study by the Seaside County Sanitation District for more than a year, but its funding had not been anticipated so soon.

Last fall studies of Monterey Bay waters showed it was polluted, and the county health department banned all water contact sports. Then the state Regional Water Quality Control Board issued a cease and desist order against the sanitation district and threatened to impose a $6,000 a day fine.

The district successfully resisted in court a building freeze, and then earlier this month the water board recognized that the district had brought bacteria counts to within state standards again.

The sanitation district board had originally planned for a Nov. bond issue, but moved that up when the building freeze threat appeared imminent. District board members point out that the $6,000 a day fine threat still exists.

The $800,000 would go with $300,000 federal funds, if they're approved, to effect a $1.1 million expansion of the treatment plant, on the beach in Sand City.

The expansion would lift the quality of treatment from primary to secondary, anticipated soon to be the minimum acceptable standard of the state water board.

The bond issue, as in all bond voting, requires a two-thirds majority to pass.

There is no organized opposition to the issue, but proponents have expressed fear that a recent trend of failures of bond issues or any measures that involve the increase of tax moneys will work against passage.

A certain built - in opposition also exists from the water board itself. The board has pressed for a regional solution -- probably the entire Monterey Bay. But local officials argue that such a plan would be too far off to protect the local district from future construction bans when it failed to meet ever-toughening pollution standards.

John Jenks, an engineer who did a long - range study for the district, said in his report that while a local expansion of the district's existing facilities would cost $1.1 million, a regional plan would cost nearly $3.3 million.

Local officials point out that the use of the $800,000 from the sale of the bonds would not be inflexible. They say if regional planning could prove that a regional solution could be reached fast enough and economically enough that such a option is possible. They also note that the district will participate in AMBAG studies on the regional planning.

The steering committee campaigning for a Yes vote on the bonds, submitted the following background information on the election:

Youth to 'govern' Seaside Thursday, council, planners to hold park hearings

City officials will spend Thursday afternoon taking Seaside High students through the paces of city government, then hold their regular meeting that evening at 8 o'clock at city hall.

The Youth in Government Day, usually incorporated into the regular evening council session, is being planned for the afternoon because of a heavy council agenda, according to City Manager Milt Farrell.

The council missed its regular session last week because of a training institute in Los Angeles, and its meeting is being preceded by a public hearing by the planning commission at 7 p.m.

Subject of the back - to - back hearings, is to consider a recreation element for the general plan of the city. A major item in the element calls for a change in the Hannon Redevelopment Project zoning to provide for 10-acre park at the corner of La Salle and Noche Buena.

The council will hold its public hearing immediately after the planners' hearing so that the Redevelopment Agency will have time to alter its program before a budget deadline of June 30.

The council will also consider the introduction of an ordinance to amend the municipal code on city elections. The ordinance was called for by Oliver Murray after Pat Patterson appeared before the council earlier in May objecting to existing policy for paying councilmen in the event of a recount.

The ordinance would stop councilmen's pay from the time a recount is called until that councilman is reseated or until his successor is seated.

Seaside High School teenage basketball league finished recently with the final results giving a team of Monterey High students the top spot, with an undefeated 5-0 record.

This league is part of the community school programs and is under the direction and coordination of Ron Bettencourt, who is in charge of community school programs at Seaside High. Bettencourt said he is planning a summer basketball league to be held at Seaside High and interested teams should contact him at 394-6831.

Joining Carroll on the all-league team were Pryor, Garnett, Purnell and Simmons.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

DILATORY PATIENTS

Rochester, N.Y. (WMNS) - A study of heart attack victims reveals that it took the average patient more than three hours to make up his mind to seek medical help. Transportation to the hospital usually took an additional 20 minutes.

These findings tend to dash hoped that mobile coronary care units can make a sizable dent in heart disease fatalities, Drs. Sidney Goldstein and Arthur J. Moss, associate professors at the University of Rochester School of Medicine, point out, since the problem lies with human indecisiveness.

Furthermore, case histories of 160 heart attack victims show that the most stricken patients procrastinated the longest in turning to a doctor despite the fact that prompt hospitalization can be lifesaving. The investigators conclude that patients must be trained to recognize and react promptly to danger signals.

DEATH'S WITNESS

London (WMNS)- What does it feel like to die?

"I felt something inside of me running down very quickly. The customary ward sounds rapidly receded, there was a singing in my ears, and vision faded. That is all I remember."

This first-hand report comes from an expert witness, an anonymous doctor who dies while hospitalized for a heart attack and was then brought back to life by external heart massage and other methods of resuscitation. He was able to follow most of what was being done to him despite the fact that he temporarily lost his sight, his speech and nuscle control.

"I experienced a sensation of being plugged into something with a corresponding feeling of relief," he recalled in the British medical magazine, The Lancet, correctly guessing after a few moments that he had been ine.

Even when he appeared to be unconscious, the doctor - patient overheard much of what was said about him by attending physicians and nurses. He realized that a new consultant was on the scene because of the distinctive way the arrival breathed and moved his stethescope.

I have now entered on my second life with zest," the recovered man concluded.

DANGEROUS MAXICOATS?

New York (WMNS) - Can the maxicoat be dangerous?

Yes, insists Mrs. Marjorie May of the Greater New York Safety Council, who also finds then graceless and unsanitary.

Danger lurks inside and out for maxicoat wearers, according to Mrs. May, who cited the following possibilities: catching the hem in an escalator, stepping on the bottom and tripping while going up curbs and stzirs, catching high heels in the hem, having the person behind step on the dragging skirt.

The current popularity of maxi-length garments is a fad, not a real fashion,' insists the safety expert. "We believe women should be made aware of the accident potential of such clothing, but we certainly are not trying to act as fashion dictators."

For those who prefer style to safety, Mrs. May counsels instant lifting of the skirt when confronted with curb, stair, pubdle, escalator or other hazard.

MALE ROSES

San Mateo, Calif. (WMNS) - As more and more men smell lovely, some develop rashes in the beard area.

A dermatologist, Dr. Ernst Epstein of the San Mateo Medical Clinic, says the two facts are definitely linked. Whatever the label -- whether preshave lotion, after-sahve lotion, all-purpose lotion or cologne - they all contain perfumes which bring out the rash in some allergic men, particularly after shaving has irritated and sensitized their skin.

LAW IN ACTION

DEFENDING PERSONS AND PROPERTY

What right, if any does an owner have to defend his property and his family?

Defense of Property

As a rule the landowner must warn or ask the trespasser to leave his place before he can force him off. He may use force, but not excessive force, to defend his property or to eject trespassers.

Typically, "excessive" force would apply to such things as the use of spring guns, high voltage fences, or traps. They might well injure the trespasser, to say nothing of children and others who may be hurt unintentionally. As a rule, barbed wire on farms and spiked walls around factories are regarded as legitimate.

A typical case of the use of force: The bartender ejects his noisy patron. If he uses only what force he needs to do that job, he is all right. But if he beats up his patron afterwards, he may well have a damage suit on his hands.

Or take Wilbur: After getting harassing phone threats he found a vandal late one night on his place, looking as if he carried a bomb. Wilbur told him to leave and fired a warning shot. When the trespasser stood his ground, Wilbur shot him. The court found the shooting was legally justified, as not an excessive use of force in these circumstances.

Defense of Persons

Any force needed to protect a person, his family, or guests on his place is legal. Such a defender must have reason to believe that he or his family is in real danger.

"Necessary" force is what reasonably appears at the time in the particular circumstance to be necessary. In the face of what appears to be a danger, one may use necessary force, even though, as later events may show, he was mistaken about the real danger.

Where one has a reasonably safe way to escape harm, he should use it rather than use deadly force. If an intruder is in one's home, however, the dweller has no legal duty to retreat. He can use all the force he needs to remove the intruder.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

"The state must bear a fair share and larger share of the school cost. It must bring relief to the property taxpayer in so doing..."

—Excerpt from a speech by GOVERNOR RONALD REAGAN Sacramento, January 11, 1967

This is what Proposition 8 does

- ☐ It restores "the historic 50-50 ratio" for state and local financing of public schools, which Governor Reagan said, in the same speech, "I hope that we will be able to restore."
- ☐ It requires the state to finance 90 per cent of the state and local cost of welfare.
- ☐ Proposition 8 significantly reduces the burden on property taxpayers in so doing, and grants additional property tax relief by increasing the present homeowners' exemption from $750 to $1000.
- ☐ Proposition 8 protects property taxpayers in the future by requiring the state to pay for all new county programs forced on the counties by the legislature and at least 50 per cent of the cost of all new school programs forced on local districts by the legislature.
- ☐ Proposition 8 makes better educational opportunity available—from non-property tax sources —for school students in every district in California.

SMATS studiers in area

If you see a car marked SMATS driving through your neighborhood don't panic.

Salinas-Monterey Area Transportation Study personnel, working from field offices in Monterey and Salinas, have just begun the mamoth job of tabulating overy one of the homes in northern Monterey County.

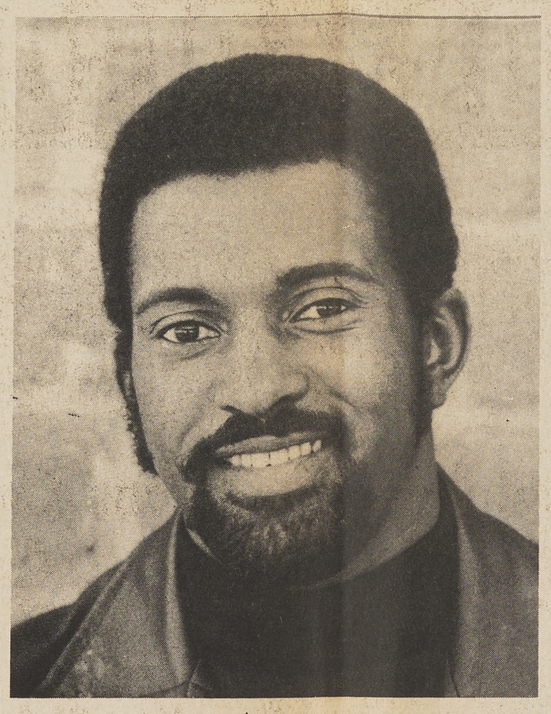
Included in the study area are 616 square miles in which about 90% of the county's population lives, extending from the Santa Cruz County line in the north to Chualar and Point Soberanes in the south, and from the Pacific Ocean on the west to San Benito County on the east.

The Salinas - Monterey Area Transportation Study (SMATS for short) is a fact finding agency concerned with travel facilities in the area, and will ultimate provide information which will make it possible for planners to forcast needs for all kinds of transportation.

An estimated 65,000 separate housing units will be counted and tabulated by the end of the year, according to Curtis. Teams of listers from SMATS, a cooperative venture involving the seven incorporated cities of the area, Monterey County, the State of California and the federal government, began the task last week.

Every tenth home will be listed as a sample in the SMATS survey. Beginning in June, the occupants of these housing samples will be interviewed by study representatives working about a month behind the listers; everyone connected with that household will be asked to keep a record of each trip made on certain days. Thus a statistical sampling of the journeys made by the residents of the area will be compiled.

This survey will involve approximately forty people, most of whom will be hired locally. The total survey will continue until January, 1971.



SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. Why should a working wife pay Society Security taxes? Won't she get benefits from her husband's Social Security?

A. Although a wife receives benefits based on her husband's Social Security, nevertheless, her own Social Security gives her additional insurance protection. She can become eligible to her own retirement benefits that can be higher than her benefits as a wife. She will also have protection against the hazard of severe disability. If her husband becomes unable to work and she supports him, he may qualify for benefites at age 62 on her Social Security. In the event of a wife's death, benefits may be payable to her widower and any young children.

Q. I want a Social Security number to be used for identification. Why can't I use it for just this purpose?

A. A Social Security card is not good identification. Thousands of cards are lost each year. It would be very easy for such cards to be misused by the finder. Therefore, the use of a card for identification is discouraged both in the interests of the true owner of the card and in the interests of those who would honor the cord. It must also be remembered that original Social Security cards may be obtained by anyone without identification.

Art institutes

Three art instututes and a theater institute will be offered at Monterey Peninsula College this summer.

The art institutes have been designed to compress 60 hours of instruction into nine days instead of the traditional six weeks.

All institutes earn students units of college credit.

Brochures describing the courses are available in MPC's administration building, as are application forms and registration instructions.

VESTED FASHIONS—The layered look is popular in children's wear this spring. Here, polka dots pop out on two vested cotton knit styles by Cinderella. Little sister's tank vest tops a panel-pleated skirt and long-sleeved blouse. Big sister's low-sashed dress takes a matching vest for a three-piece look.

FOR LITTLE GIRLS...

Cottons That Bloom In The Spring

The spring parade of little girls' cottons steps out in a variety of colors and styles to complement every small miss.

The Thirties look influences children's wear just as it does women's wear. It's reflected in body-hugging lines and long stretched-out torsos. The low-down waists have flippy skirts or feminine pleats.

Another important trend is the costume look, with coat and dress ensembles predominating. In this category are cardigan coats, long vests, sleeveless coats, and capes with coordinated dresses.

Separates worn in layers continue to be popular. The long sleeveless jacket or button-front vest in comfortable cotton knit is an important part of the layered look.

While ribbed or crocheted knits are top contenders for first place in spring's fashion parade, there are other stylish cottons, too. They include denim, duck, canvas, and textured piques. Reflecting the perennial freshness of spring, they come in whitened plaids, bold checks, stripes, polka dots, and peasant prints.

Colors include tender pastels and classic red, white, and blue combinations.

EOP post

Ebenezer Hunter, for the past year a part-time instructor in Monterey Peninsula College's black studies department while working on his master's degree in sociology at San Jose State College, was hired by the MPC board of trustees as interim Educational Opportunity Program coordinator.

Owens, who was also hired recently, will function on a hlaf-time consultant basis at MPC. Currently working on his master's degree in counseling and guidance at San Jose State, he is president of the San Jose Black Educators Council and has had experience in community liaison work at Andrew Hill High School in San Jose.

Christian Science

Will power, hypnotism and occult practices are the opposte of control through sipritual understanding, as explained in the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Bible citations point out that belief in evil forces has existed through the ages, under various names. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is: "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

One of the citations from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "Christian Science reveals Truth and Love as the motive-powers of man. Will — blind, stubbon, and headlong — cooperates with appetite and passion. From the cooperation arises its evil. From this also comes its powerlessness, since all power belongs to God, good."

The public is invited to attend serves started at 11 a.m. at Christian Science churches on the Monterey Peninsula.

Cut cancelled

Earl W. Brian, M.D., director of the state department of health, has cancelled a temporary 10 per cent cut in Medi-Cal pharmacy fees after the prescription medicines budget limit was raised by legislation.

Dr. Brian said a law signed last week permitted the outlay for Medi-Cal prescriptions to go 15 per cent above budget instead of 10 per cent.

Fees paid to some 4,000 pharmacies had been cut from $2.30 to $2.07 effect May 8 until June 30 by law to avoid cutting off medicine for Medi-Cal patients.

LIFESAVERS

Two basic changes in your driving habits are necessary when towing a trailer, reminds the California State Automobile Association: (1) Reduce your speed and, (2) increase your following distance. In California, the maximum speed limit for towing trailers is 55 miles per hour, unless otherwise posted. The law requires any slow-moving vehicle that is impeding the progress of five or more vehicles to pull into a marked turnout area. On two-lane highways, stay at least 500 feet behind any truck or other vehicle pulling a trailer. On long, downhill grades, use lower gears to conserve brakes.

MORE SEWER BOND ISSUE

Sanitation District?

It is a public agency formed by vote of the poeple on March 1, 1950. The District boundaries include the incorporated communities of Sand City, Del Rey Oaks and most of Seaside, along with some unincorporated territory. The total present population of the district is approximately 21,000.

What is the district's function?

Prior to creation of the District, the population of the area was served by cesspools and septic tanks. In the interest of public health protection, the District was formed to provide, maintain and operate sewage collection, treatment and disposal facilities for all properties within its boundaries.

What is the administrative authority?

It is governed by a Board of Directors - one member each from Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and Sand City. The administration, maintenance and operation of District facilities are handles by the City of Seaside.

In 1950 District voters approved a $706,000 general obligation bond proposition which financed construction of a primary sewage treatment plant at the end of Contra Costa Street in Sand City, trunk and collector sewer mains, and an outfall line which carries waste water, after the treatment process, some 650 feet into the offshore waters of Monterey Bay. Accordingly, for 20 years Seaside County Sanitation District has been providing sewage collection, treatment and disposal facilities for the Canyon Del Rey drainage basin area which today includes the cities of Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and Sand City.

Acting under State law in December 1968 the Regional Water Quality Control Board established new and stricter standards for waste water discharged. The new standards are applicable to our entire peninsula community, i.e., the Cities of Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, and the Seaside County Sanitation District in order to prevent pollution of Monterey Bay and resultant danger to public health. Because of inadequate and or incomplete action on the more stringent standards the State issued a cease and desist order to cognizant Districts on December 12, 1969, and two months later banned all new sewer construction, within these certain District boundaries. At the Control Board's request the State Attorney General in March 1970 asked the Court for an injunction against further bay discharge by the District, plus a $6,000 daily fine, retroactive to December 13, 1968 - (simple arithmetic provides the answer --$3,000,000!). The District immediately hired a competent firm of engineering consultants to prepare a long-range plan for waste water treatment and disposal facilities. These consultants rcommended a 3 - stage plant improvement program capable of meeting present and future State discharge requirements, along with projected area growth demands until the year 2000. The first stage of this plant improvement program will adequately serve the Seaside County Sanitation District until the population of the District is increased to 40,000/. The first stage of the improvement program will involve construction of new secondary treatment facilities costing approximately $1,100,000. Accordingly, this is the reason for including the general obligation sewer bond Proposal in the June 2 Primary Election.

Two weeks ago, May 11th, the Regional Water Board rescinded the construction ban and the $6,000 per day possible fine. Their action was based on the fact that the respective local Sanitation Districts had taken sufficient positive action to temporarily meet the new stndards required by the state. It is to be noted, however, the the restrictions may be reimposed if the bond election fails.

What would stage one bonds cost an average district homeowner?

Let's assume you are an average District homeowner whose property has a fair market value of $18,000. The sewer taxes will be increased an average of 12¢ per $100 assessed valuation over the 25-year life of the bonds. The tax would amount to approximately $5.40 per year, or less than 50¢ per month. The maximum increased tax cost would be in 1974-75 when the taxes required for bond repayment would reach $11.00 for that one year and would proceed to reduce every year thereafter.

Rubella vaccine available in county

Immunization for Rubella (German Measles) is now available at many physicians offices and can soon be obtained at the Monterey County Health Department. It is generally advised that children between the ages of 1 through 11 years old be immunized to protect the spread of infection and more important, to prevent women who may be pregnant.

Dr. Louis Saylor, State Director of Public Health has stated: "If a susceptible woman catches the Rubella virus during pregnancy, there may be seious damage to the unborn baby, including blindness, deafness, mental retardation or heart disease."

The Rubella Vaccine developed over the past several years has been tested and used in various parts of the world for over 2 years. Experience with the vaccine to date suggests that a single shot should protect the child for the rest of his life. It is urged that all children, age one through 11 be immunized even though some doubt may exist as to whether or not the child had the disease.

Rubella epidemics have a typical pattern of appearing approximately every 7 years. During the last major outbreak in middle sisties, over 20,000 deformed babies were born in this country to women who had contracted the disease during their first four months of pregnancy. Immunizing now should go for towards preventing this disaster of crippled children and costly outlay to all of us.

Watch your news media for forthcoming announcements of dates when Rubella immunizations are available at the Monterey County Health Department or see your family doctor now for your children's immunizations.

VOTE "YES" JUNE 2 Seaside County Sanitation District

SEWER BONDS - June 2

Facts to Remember on the way to the polls

* Seaside County Sanitation District's $800,000 general obligation bond measure on the June 2 Primary Election ballot will help finance urgently needed new sewage treatment plant facilities to meet stricter State requirements.
* The Regional Water Quality Control Board has ordered our District to improve the quality of treated waste water discharged into Monterey Bay -- or face serious penalities.
* The District's 27,000 residents will continue to live under the serious threat of another shutdown of all new construction requiring sewer connections, plus the possibility of a $6,000 per day fine against District taxpayers for every day contamination of Bay waters continues.
* Financing the required improvements by sale of general obligation bonds is the cheapest method of solving our problem. Costs in additional property taxes for a typical homeowner will average less than 50¢ per month.
* A two-thirds majority of those voting on the ballot measure must cast "yes" ballots for the bonds to be authorized. Should the measure fail, the District would be forced to use financing ~~moteds~~ which could triple present sewer taxes.
